

The two mile Turas Domhnach Cati—Senshue completed, Standing in orderly fashion awaiting the bus to go home.

(Below) Going home in the rain, running up the dark lane. praying for a bright brand new day

(Above) At the end of the Turas singing from the same hymn sheet the hymn, 'Hail Glorious St Patrick, dear Saint of our Isle.

Photo Credits, John Boyle, Catherine Montgomery and Tony Crilly.

Turas Domhnach Cati and Domhnach Senshue 13th May 2013

(Above) At Kilcattan Road approaching Domhnach Cati.

(Across) Colm being shown how to use the staff of St Patrick and live in hope than fear of another rainy day

(Above) Tony stokes up the fire and leaves Marie the hard part of showing the way ahead.

(Above) The fit Dunamanagh folk show the Ardmore folk how to keep up the pace.

Not to be beaten, the Ardmore Folk take up the pace and lead the way

Every bridge is a peace bridge connecting both sides of the divide, not allowing troubled waters hinder our journey ahead.

Taking time out to bond with one another. No need for haste on this Pilgrim path.

Standing to pray after being around the bend in this neck of the wood.

Sometimes in life we have to step up a gear to make it on our uphill struggles.

We prayed the Rosary quietly too as we walked those quiet country roads

Geraldine asking the eternal question, Are we there yet? Geraldine keep up the pace, I can see the end is in sight Domhnach Senshue ahead.

Awaiting tickets not for West Life. but Next Life.